Noir 2 5W OR 2

PREMIERS MONDAY 5 July @ 6PM GMT+2

link in bio

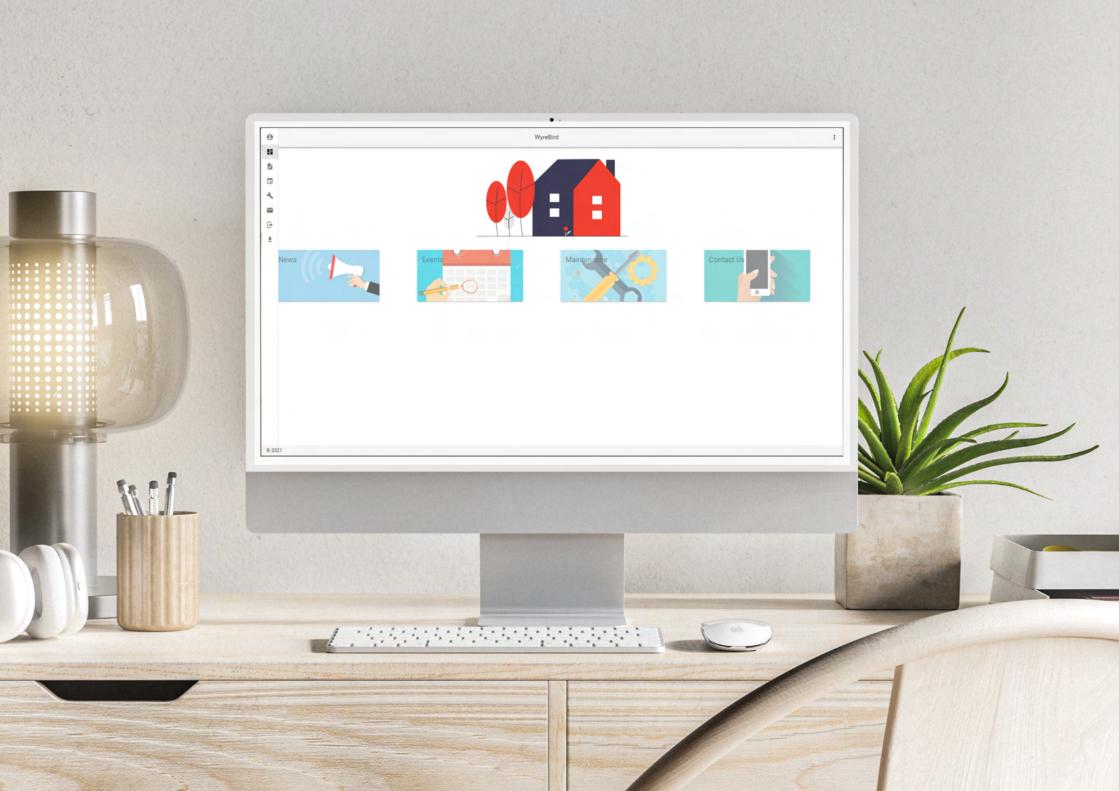

Noir 2 is a short film that I made for my YouTube channel. The dark, moody design with the bright neon text felt like the best route to go. I am very proud of this Instagram Story since it describes the Noir genre well with the limited information given.

I included this one as an example of 'bad' design. It's not awful, but I want to point out what I would do differently. The title and image work are good, but the text at the bottom has little to no hierarchy, confusing the person as to what is important and not. The 'Link in bio' feels out of place, and the time seems too big compared to the Premiere date.

Web Design

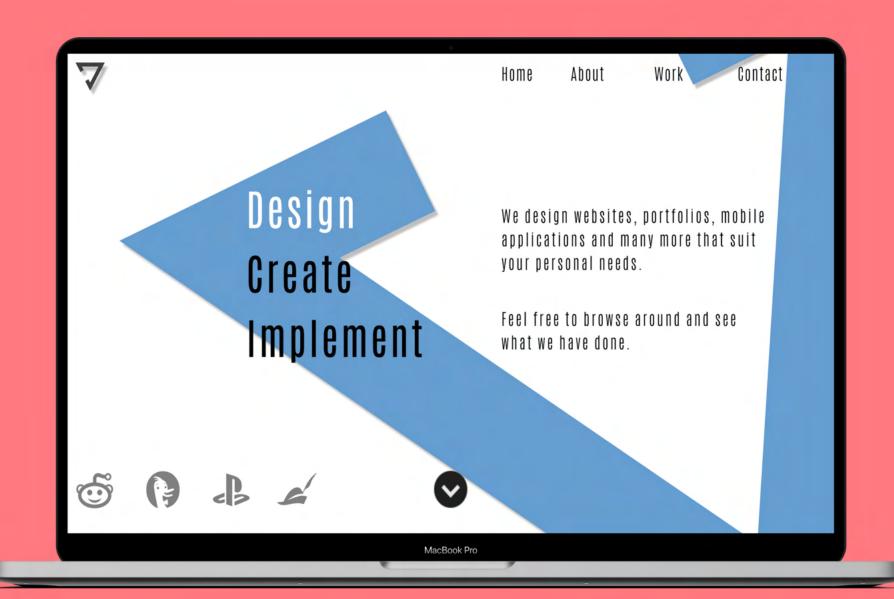

The above is a user interface I deigned for a web app called Wyrebird that helps manage students at a residency communicate to the manager in a seamless way.

This was designed mobile-first. Therefore, it is responsive with both desktops and mobile devices.

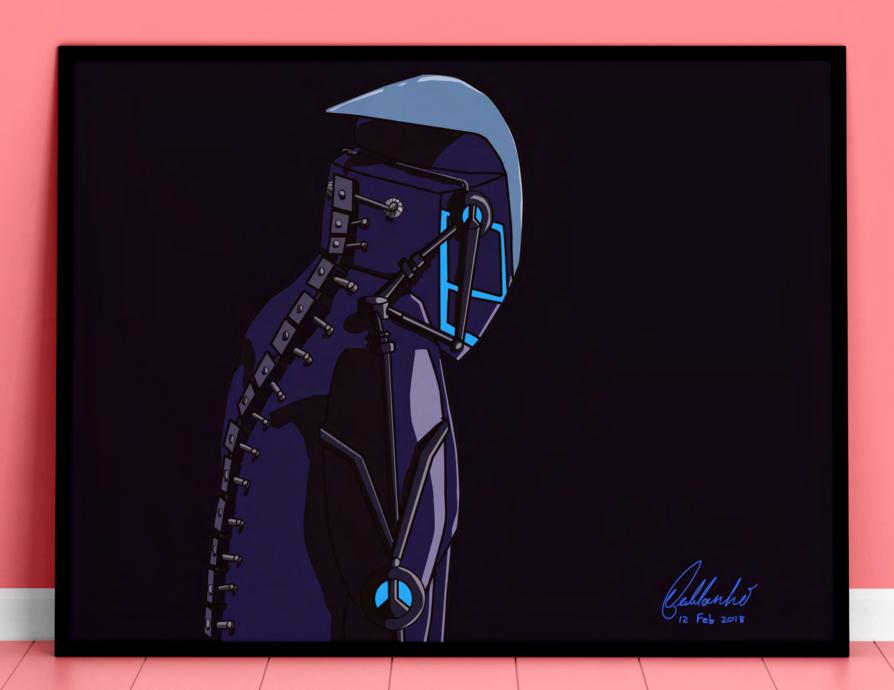

This is a second mock design I recently created using Figma as a way to test out what I could come up with in a day. I am pleased with the result and the line work that points to the heading, leading the user's eyes towards the title.

Illustrations

These illustrations are very special to me. The first being my latest illustration in honour of my father's life after his passing. In it, a poem I wrote for him.

The second one in its techical ability to show neon in this dark exoskeleton suit that really catches your eye.

Great Taste From Bottle

This is a showcase of Typography. I used a mock design of a wine bottle with a slogan that I made up and created the shape of the bottle to illustrate the slogan.
